

Hi, My name is Menachem Polonsky.

Startup Founder. Marketing Strategist. Now, UX Designer.

My greatest gift lies in my ability to communicate. To manifest the abstract into reality. Growing up this found expression in music, dance and film. As I discovered the entrepreneurial spirit within myself it evolved into a startup, user acquisition strategies, and now into the creation of digital products; and I am deeply passionate about all its facets, the form, function, the humans it will effect, the entire process.

Creatio ex nihilo.

My current goal is to learn and perfect my product design expertise under the tutelage of an industry veteran or alongside a team of passionate product designers.

When not designing, you can find me spending time with family and friends, taking space to breathe, listening to music, exploring the city in search of a minimalist coffee shop, and reminding myself to let loose and have some fun along the journey :)
